

Development projects – examples from Prague

Václav Orcígr

Arnika – Citizens' Support Center

Department of Sociology, Charles University, Prague

- Low chances to influence specific projects from the position of citizens/NGOs
- Limited public participation in decision making
- Active local initiatives, residents
- Outputs/benefits – shift of public/expert discussion

---

General features of urban development in Prague

- Privatized space
  - zoning/spatial plan is a key instrument of regulation
- Problematic connection between climate policies and urban planning
- Current trend – transformation of brownfields, big spatial changes
- Tendency to increase density
- Broad scale of actors with different amount of power
- Broad public discussion on development principles

Role of activists & NGOs

- How to measure our impact and not to burn out?
